Forty Planes Bomb Hankow, Where Alleged Soviet Aid Is Being Given

CHINESE ATTACKS HAVE NEW PRECISION

Believe Soviet Flyers Tanks And Guns, May Be Aiding Defenders

SHANGHAI, Jan. 4.—Japan struck hard today to deal a death-blow against alleged Soviet Russian aid to China in her war with Nippon.

A Japanese naval spokesman announced that forty Japanese planes bombed Hankow, Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek's provisional headquarters, "with the object of crushing the reorganized Chinese air force, in which Soviet airmen are playing a prominent part."

Direct Japanese Charge
This was the most direct charge yet made by Japan that Russian operatives are actively aiding China in combating the Japanese campaign. It immediately raised keen speculation among observers here as to whether it might lead to further sharp diplomatic exchanges between Tokyo and Moscow.

It was learned that three persons were killed and 16 wounded during the Japanese air attack on Hankow. The entire population of the city took refuge under ground.

The charge regarding alleged Russian aid to China, and the frank, even belligerent admission that Nip-

PA NEW OBSERVES

In response to an article in "Pa New Observer" on Industrial Activities and Farm Movement, "There's always plenty of work on a farm but it takes money to run a farm. The man with plenty of money to finance a farm can farm extensively and make money, but it takes plenty to keep going. The man farming on a small scale doesn't have a chance. A woman's work on a farm is never done."

The Watkins residence (formerly the Joseph Norris residence) of West Washington street, was very outstanding in its holiday lighting, and decoration effects, Pa New is told. They were just taken down yesterday.

It is reported that Robinson St. is in bad shape for travel having many large holes along its course.

Although there was only a light fall of snow during the early morning, it was sufficient to cause the ashing trucks and workmen to go into action. Many of the hills were quite slippery and had to be ashed for safety.

New Castle's municipal holiday decorations were being removed today, and the last trace of the holiday trimmings were being taken down from the homes of the city and community.

Weather conditions so far this winter have been very similar to what they were a year ago. Temperatures starting off the New Year were slightly warmer this year than last, but the rainfall was about the same. However, it will be remembered that last year was a very dry one.

New Carnegie-Illinois Head Takes Up Duties

(International News Service)
PITTSBURGH, Pa., Jan. 4.—The strong expectation that business will improve in 1938 was held out today by John Lester Perry, new president of Carnegie-Illinois Steel Corporation, as he took over the duties of running the nation's greatest steel manufacturing concern.

Perry, who succeeded Benjamin F. Fairless, new head of U. S. Steel Corporation, as the giant subsidiary's new president, said that although he strongly expected business to improve he felt the steel industry would continue on its present week-to-week basis of operation well into the year.

Perry saw no immediate indication of a drop in the price of steel in the near future due, he said, to the increased cost of wages.

In an interview with newspapermen here, Perry declared the steel industry could be counted upon to do its share in cooperating to improve business.

The new Carnegie-Illinois head refused to comment on renewal of S.W.O.C. contracts, due to expire next month, the president's address, or anything pertaining to politics.

"What we want," he said, "is to get along and continue doing business."

He will visit all of Carnegie-Illinois plants as soon as possible he said.

Navy Signal Code Book Lost When Panay Went Down

Search By Divers Fails To Locate Copy Of Important U. S. Navy Code

LITTLE CHANCE OF RAISING PANAY

Failure To Find Code Book Will Mean Entire System Must Be Changed

(BULLETIN)
(International News Service)
SHANGHAI, Jan. 4.—Thorough search was launched today for a treasured copy of the general signal code book of the United States navy, tossed into the Yangtze river from the Gunboat Panay when the vessel sank after being struck by Japanese aerial bombs.

Fears were felt the book might possibly fall into Japanese hands, an eventuality which would necessitate revision of the entire American naval codes.

Little concern was felt about the book at first. In preparation for emergencies, the book had been weighted so it would sink to the bottom easily, enabling divers to recover it.

But thus far, it was learned, the volume has not been found, although divers succeeded in recovering two safes, one from the radio room and the other from the captain's cabin of the Panay.

Five other strong-boxes are being sought in addition to the codebook.

Naval Officials Disappointed
American naval officials, it was understood, were keenly disappointed.

Train Wrecked By Jap Bombs

(International News Service)
LONDON, Jan. 4.—Forty-two persons were killed and 88 injured, including women and children refugees, when an express train running from Canton to Wuchang in China was derailed and a mile-long tunnel collapsed following a Japanese air bombardment, the London Daily Express reported today from Hong Kong.

The paper said the impact of the train caused a further collapse of the tunnel and that many passengers were buried under the debris.

At least 400 tons of aerial bombs destined for China for Italy, have been unloaded in South China, the Express added, and a constant stream of war materials is en route to Canton by road, rail and river.

Two Thousand File Claims For State Payments

Unemployment Compensation Offices Here Kept Busy By Applicants

OVER 6,000 CLAIMS IN FOUR COUNTIES

Nearly 2,000 of Lawrence county's unemployed—1,914 to be exact—yesterday filed formal claims for weekly payments provided under Pennsylvania's new unemployment compensation act. Another 500 are expected to file today.

A total of 6,156 filed in the Lawrence-Beaver-Butler-Mercer area on Monday, the first filing day. Harold J. Mehl, administrative assistant at the District 5 office of the state's Unemployment Compensation and Employment Service in the Citizens Bank Building, reported. The 6,156 represents the four-county filing.

Mr. Mehl, who said few women are filing claims, announced that the main filing office—in the American Legion recreation rooms on Neshannock avenue—handled 1,266 yesterday, the Ellwood branch 275, and the Bessemer branch 373.

Filing Place Changed
Men will continue to file claims at the Legion rooms on Neshannock avenue, but from today on the women's claims are being taken at the regular unemployment compensation office in the Citizens Bank Building.

"Say that we greatly appreciate the patience and the orderliness of yesterday's crowd at the Legion rooms," Mehl told a reporter. "The co-operation asked was provided—and we want those who were to know how much we appreciated it."

Twenty interviewers served Monday in New Castle and Ellwood and Bessemer. It took five minutes for every interview.

Jewel Robbery In Swanky Home On Long Island

Four Thugs Make Big Haul At Home Of J. Edward Meyer

(International News Service)
KINGS POINT, N. Y., Jan. 4.—Four brusque-voiced thugs escaped with thousands of dollars worth of jewelry today after boldly invading the swanky home of a millionaire real estate operator located on Long Island's gold coast here.

Exact amount of jewelry stolen was not learned immediately, but police feared value of the loot would be great.

Soon after ten o'clock this morning, the holdup men drove up the driveway of the J. Edward Meyer home, leaped out, slugged the man servant who answered the door and piled into the mansion with guns leveled.

Two other servants were held prisoners while the bandits leisurely looted jewel boxes of the mansion. Hugging their loot, the quartet jumped into their car and disappeared.

A police blockade was laid down at once. All ferries to Connecticut, all roads leading to New York City and all Long Island airports were blanketed by police officers.

White House 'Door Is Open'

Believe President's Speech To Congress Attempted Olive Branch Move

BUSINESS MAY BE GIVEN CHANCE

(International News Service)
WASHINGTON, Jan. 4.—President Roosevelt was represented today as believing that in his message to congress he went as far as possible in extending the olive branch to big business, and that it is now up to business to demonstrate its willingness to cooperate with his administration to check unemployment and pull out of the slump.

As one of his advisers phrased it: "The White House door is open. The invitation has been extended to business to come in and cooperate."

That is Mr. Roosevelt's own appraisal of the current situation.

Just how this cooperation may be achieved, or how it may manifest itself, is something else again. Mr. Roosevelt evidently considers that to be a matter that is up to organized business itself. He feels he has made the opening gesture of conciliation. Unless it is accepted, it is quite probable that his future utterances—notably the Jackson Day speech next Saturday night, and his forthcoming message to congress for tightening the anti-trust laws—may take on a considerably sharper tone.

"The yoke of the white races over the yellow must disappear. The mercantile interests of whites must vanish in the sun of Japan's mission."

In the interview, which was reproduced by the entire Paris press, he added:

"When the whites are banished from Asia, I am convinced the yellow race will enjoy that happiness which heaven reserves for it, and the end of the hegemony of the whites will really inaugurate the era of justice and humanity of which Europeans and Americans are constantly speaking."

Crucial Battle Rages For Teruel

Weather Fails To Halt Battle

Temperature Below Zero As Fighting Continues On Spain's Eastern Front

LOYALISTS CLAIM GAINS ARE MADE

(International News Service)
HENDAYE, France, Jan. 4.—The crucial battle for possession of Teruel on Spain's eastern front raged on furiously today despite continued snow and temperatures that fell below zero.

Advances from Barcelona, seat of the Loyalist government, claimed the government troops had repulsed an insurgent armored car attack against Teruel from Conced.

The Loyalists also claimed to have gained ground in the Muela De Teruel sector and to have occupied the civil governor's palace and the Santa Clara church within the city.

If these claims are true, it may mean that the rebel band, which held out against overwhelming Loyalist forces for weeks in a siege rivaling the historic siege of the Alcazar, has at last been wiped out—with rescue almost at hand.

Insurgent reports from Salamanca claimed the rebel forces have "crushed" the government troops, inflicting thousands of casualties. Snowstorms, these reports said, prevented the rebels from following up their advance toward Castrola.

From Castrola, the insurgent high command hopes to cut the Loyalist retreat along the Teruel-Valencia road. Meanwhile, the rebel left wing near Val De Cebro is striving to join up with the frontal troops in a maneuver designed to cut the Valencia road completely, thus bottling up the Loyalist within the city.

JAPAN STRIKES TO HALT SOVIET AID TO CHINA

pon intends to "crush" it, came on the heels of repeated reports that Soviet-manufactured fighting planes and Russian pilots are now actively engaged in the conflict.

Report Russians Aid

These reports reached a crescendo early this morning, stating the Soviet planes, pilots and other military machines had plunged into two separate battles against the Japanese.

The advice said the Chinese war planes, built in Russia and manned by Soviet airmen, had bombed the Japanese-occupied former capital of China.

Furthermore, it was stated, the Chinese counter-offensive against Hangchow, to the southwest, was strengthened materially by new Russian tanks and guns.

That these reports were taken with intense seriousness by the Japanese was proved by their fighting rejoinder this afternoon. The Japanese planes, the announcement said, concentrated on the Hankow airbase in order to do as much damage as possible to the Chinese air fleet.

Chinese Attack Damaging The Chinese aerial attack on Nanking, aimed at Japan's military airbases, struck with the precision and speed of a highly trained unit and caused much damage before the planes escaped to the west. This gave rise to conviction here that the planes were manned by Soviet pilots.

Meanwhile, Chinese press dispatches claiming Hangchow, capital of Chekiang province 120 miles southwest of Shanghai, had been captured by China's counter-drive were hotly denied by Japan's army spokesmen.

Japanese troops which captured the strategic city several weeks ago are still in possession, the spokesmen asserted, and are holding off a desperate Chinese attempt to recapture the town.

Severe Fighting

Other advice here said severe fighting was in progress for Hangchow and that Chinese troops, led by the famous "Ironside" general, Chang Pah-Kwei, were hammering Japanese legions along the shores of West Lake, near the city.

General Chang claimed he was "on the point" of completely sealing Hangchow and that guerrilla columns under the communist leader, General Han Yin, were cooperating with his "Ironside" forces.

The Japanese, he asserted, were in full retreat at an early hour this morning.

Seek To Crush Chinese Air Force Hangkow, Jan. 4.—With the avowed aim of crushing the Chinese air force, alleged recipient of material assistance from Soviet Russia, Japanese war planes devastated the Hankow airbase today.

Seventy-five bombs were dropped on workshops and hangars, turning the buildings into shambles and destroying numerous planes. Hankow is now the seat of Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek's provisional government.

Forty Japanese planes roared three times from one end of the airfield to the other, dropping their deadly missiles with unerring aim. The craft then went on to attack the Hanyang arsenal, miles away. The arsenal itself escaped but other buildings were set afire.

A lone Chinese plane attempting to engage the raiders was shot down in flames. British machine-guns on gunboats anchored in the river stood by under orders to reply without hesitation if the boats were fired upon.

ed when immediate efforts failed to recover the volume. It was thought possible the volume might either have drifted with the Yangtze's sluggish current or possibly have sunk into the ooze on the bottom.

In either case, if the codebook is not recovered, revision may be necessary on the off-chance it might have fallen by one means or another into Nipponese possession.

Meanwhile, divers reported there was little likelihood of raising the Panay itself because of the mud suction at the bottom of the river and the vessel's lack of compartments which could be filled with air.

A civilian company was employed to handle the Panay survey, as the navy wished to avoid the tremendous cost of bringing its own salvage workers from the Philippines.

An expert Russian diver named Rubin is in charge of the operations. He has been instructed, it was learned, to concentrate on efforts to find the code book. Actual evidence the Panay was machine-gunned before it sank is now regarded as of secondary importance.

It is estimated that 1937 football made $46,000,000 for schools and $12,385,000 for the manufacturers of cold cures.

Jameson Memorial Hospital Sewing Sessions Are Resumed

With the New Year, 1938, comes the constant call for needs for humanity, and often outside help is asked, especially where the project often benefits those actually donating services.

The Jameson Memorial hospital, a place of constant activity and where there is continued demand for supplies, is one splendid institution which has and should, receive considerable attention from those whom it serves. It is stated, that weekly meetings which have been conducted the past year, will again be resumed, with an even greater call for linen articles, due to the increase in hospital care and emergency calls. The fortunate and unfortunate alike, are given professional services, whenever the call is heard and with never a whimper. Naturally, the need of supplies increases, thus, the schedule of weekly meetings is again resumed at the Jameson Memorial hospital, for 1938.

Throughout 1937, this special work was most successfully conducted by interested women, and leading organizations. Their willingness was much appreciated by the hospital staff, and splendid co-operation was noted at all times.

On Wednesday of this week, a new series of sewing meetings will again be launched, lasting throughout 1938. The regular day, Wednesday, and the same hours, 9 until 12 o'clock, will be observed, as in the past. The meetings will continue, in the Solarium of the hospital.

For their official gathering on January 5, members of the Woman's club are slated as the hostess group. This group will preside during the month of January, and ask all women non-members and members, desiring to share a splendid work, to please join them on this date in the Solarium of the Jameson Memorial hospital.

Cutters in charge Wednesday, will be Mrs. C. R. Ralph and Mrs. S. H. McGown.

The opening meeting this week, is expected to be a "red letter" event as already much enthusiasm is registered and a large number of women have planned their programs to permit them to spend three hours to a most deserving and much needed cause.

The rooms were gay with holiday decorations, and as the old year went out and the new year came in the assemblage contributed their bit of noisemaking in celebration of the occasion.

Preceding, cards claimed attention, with Mr. and Mrs. John Morrison being top scorers. They were given handsome prizes for their skill. The door trophy was won by Mr. and Mrs. Frank R. Doyle.

A beautiful buffet supper was later enjoyed, which, too, was suggestive of the season in all appointments.

Put the Brakes on It Fast With This Four-Way Treatment!

No cold can be given an inch! The more rope you give a cold, the more you do to hang yourself! No cold is a "light" cold. No cold can be ignored or neglected. The cold that is pooh-poohed today is the cold that takes a serious turn tomorrow.

Deal with a cold in a business-like manner. Treat it for what it is—an internal infection! Treat it with a cold medicine not a cure-all.

The Treatment That Answers!
Grove's Laxative Bromo Quinine (LBQ) tablets are what you want for a cold!

They are expressly a cold treatment, and not a "cure-all." They are internal medication. Bromo Quinine tablets do four important things in the treatment of colds.

First, they open the bowels. Second, they check the infection in the system. Third, they relieve the headache and fever.

Fourth, they tone the system and help fortify against further attack. Grove's Bromo Quinine tablets are nothing new or untied. They have been in use over 40 years and are the largest-selling cold tablet in the world.

That, in itself, is enough to assure you of their efficacy and dependability.

Play Safe!
The moment you feel a cold coming on, do the wise thing. Go right to your drugstore for a box of Bromo Quinine tablets. Start taking the tablets immediately and you'll usually break up the cold in 24 hours.

Bromo Quinine tablets come in 33c and 60c sizes. The 60c size is the better "buy." It gives you almost 20 per cent more for your money. Ask your druggist for Grove's Laxative Bromo Quinine (LBQ) tablets and insist upon getting what you ask for. It's your money you're spending!

AS THE NEW YEAR GETS UNDER WAY

THE American people are entering the New Year in a far different mood than the one which enveloped us twelve months ago. Then we were apparently prosperous and at peace with the world. Corporations were vying with one another in granting extra dividends and bonuses. Unemployment seemed to be steadily decreasing just as business was continually climbing. There seemed no reason to feel that we were in danger of becoming involved in a critical way with any foreign power. Politically we seemed to have entered another era of good feeling.

But the unfolding of the year 1937 brought a drastic change. Labor troubles followed one another in rapid succession, taxes mounted, and business instead of continuing to climb, began to level off and then to start a decline. The stock market, hesitated, halted, and then put on one of the sharpest and severest declines in the history of the exchange.

The sudden attack of Japan on China and the resultant bombing of American ships, and the sinking of a gunboat with loss of life, brought us into the midst of an international crisis which has not yet been solved.

The political era of good feeling was disrupted by the long fight in Congress over the proposal of the President to make over the Supreme Court. Following this came the special session of Congress which failed to accomplish the work set out for it, and resulted among other things, in the emasculation and defeat of the President's pet wages and hours bill.

At the beginning of 1938, therefore, the American people are confronted with an entirely different set of problems than the one they had to face at the beginning of 1937. It is admitted that we are in a business recession. Everyone hopes that the recession will be short lived and that we will soon again take up the march toward normalcy, just as we fervently express the wish that our foreign troubles can be settled honorably and peacefully.

This is no time for gloom spreading. Already there are signs of returning sanity in the solution of many of our economic difficulties—signs that the days of rosy experimentation are about over and sooner than anticipated we will get back on solid ground again. In all efforts to end the recession and solve our foreign problems in an American way, the administration will, of course, have the support of the American people. But the period of blind following in domestic economic and social experimentation seems about ended. That is one of the hopeful signs for the beginning of 1938.

GARNER AND TRADITION

Vice President John N. Garner, as events of the past few months have shown, is an important power in the Democratic party. His attitude on political problems should have a considerable influence on the decision of party leaders. Realizing that, we may soon have an indication of how Mr. Garner and his Democratic followers feel toward a third term for President Roosevelt.

For James V. Allred, of Texas, a strong New Dealer, is reported questioning the silent fisherman from Uvalde over the prospects of entering the Texas gubernatorial race in search of a third term. There is just as much tradition against a third term for a Texas Governor as there is for the President of the United States, for, like the Presidency, no man ever has served more than twice as head of the Lone Star State.

If Vice President Garner's decision about the Governorship is important, it is not to be ignored concerning the Presidency. And if Mr. Garner says "yes" to the shattering of an iron-clad tradition in Texas, will he also say "yes" to the national issue?

If he does, the consequences may be momentous. And so observers are watching the outcome of this dicker over the miniature issue and wondering.

SUSPENDING LICENSES FOR SPEED

That Pennsylvania had probably the highest death rate on the highways the Christmas week-end was the report that accompanied a pronouncement from Governor Earle that highway safety is to be sought this year by suspension of drivers' licenses for all who are convicted of violating the 50-mile speed limit.

Suspension of driving privileges even for a brief time is something that all drivers dislike to think of. Threat of such action will deter many in all likelihood, although threats of various kinds do not seem to have sufficed to reduce speed and killings.

The governor's premises are sound. He points out that in the past twenty years more than a third of a million persons have been killed in automobile accidents in the United States and 8,500,000 have been injured, many of them are permanently disabled. In Pennsylvania alone 34,000 have been killed in this period and nearly a million have been injured. He points out that in the World War 47,979 soldiers were killed and 221,000 wounded in action.

As speed repeatedly is demonstrated to be the companion of accidents, a check on speed is found necessary.

Little complaint of course can be made by motorists, for the legislature was liberal when it raised the legal limit from forty miles to fifty miles per hour at its last session. It took cognizance of the fact that cars with higher speeds have been developed and that these speeds will be employed, for that was the reason the newer cars were purchased. But it also recognized the fact that braking devices have been developed to keep pace with higher speeds.

There can be little complaint if abuse of the state's liberality to the motorists with respect to speed is drastically punished.

The Parent Problem

By Garry C. Myers, Ph. D.

FAMILY TROUBLES

One afternoon several years ago I was interrupted at my desk by a mother who wanted to talk to me about her adolescent boy. As she left she said, "So many of my friends have given me advice and no two of them agree." Later I learned that in her small town, and almost everywhere else she goes, she talks about her family troubles. And she is a college graduate! Well, she hardly has a problem with her son. It's with herself. Nevertheless, I feel sorry for her. Her motives are good, though she exercises exceedingly bad judgment. What embarrassment she must be creating for her son and the remainder of the family!

I wish I might persuade my fellow married folk to make it an iron-clad rule never to discuss the real or supposed shortcomings of any other member of the family with any other person except an expert, and to consider all family relations too sacred to put on the chain of gossip. If for no other reason, good taste should dictate this rule. Cultivated people are embarrassed when they must listen to matters which should be family secrets.

How flagrantly this rule is violated! Have you not often heard at a social gathering one of a married pair utter remarks which on the surface presumed to be clever, but which were clearly motivated by an urge to injure the other member of that pair? And often others listening are embarrassed by the family secrets so revealed.

No Relationship Ideal
Now, as a matter of fact, there is no marital or wider family relationship that is ideal all the time. Just see how dangerous it is to all concerned to turn a family secret into gossip. For the family member divulging it it grows bigger after being told, and magnifies each time it falls upon new ears.

And why is it that so many parents will speak of the faults of a child to their friends in his presence, and in idle conversation? All of us may be guilty of committing this invidious sin against our children. If we are not constantly on the watch, Grandma Nature often prompts us to do very mean and ugly things to our loved ones.

I . . . I . . . I
Every man is supposed to like chocolate cake . . . I don't.

A man said: "I had a friend who was a great embarrassment to me. Almost every time I encountered him, he tried to give me something. I couldn't afford to reciprocate, it would have seemed indecent to try. So I found myself avoiding a man of whom I was fond. Wasn't that a situation?"

I know two kinds of people—those who like to swim upstream, those who prefer to float. . . . The upstreamers are admirable and dependable; the downstreamers, I regret to say, are often better company.

It used to be difficult for me to say "I don't know." . . . The world is in such a state—and I, perhaps, have changed so much—that those three words come easily to my lips.

What is it in me that makes me resent overattnessiveness on the part of a waiter? . . . It can't be my "rugged individualism."

I don't begin to like a coat sweater until it gets holes in the elbows—and about that time I receive orders not to wear it any more.

If I got out of bed just 15 minutes earlier in the morning I wouldn't need to rush a bit. . . . But those 15 minutes are the most precious of all.

I've heard of individuals who pop out of bed bright and fresh and eager to start the day's activities, but I don't know anybody like that and perhaps I wouldn't like them if I did.

I read more trash than good literature because there is more trash than good reading in the world—and people who are addicted to reading would rather read junk than not read at all.

I don't believe anybody ever caught a cold from getting his feet wet.

Hints and Dints

Sun sets tonight 4:56; sun rises tomorrow 7:25.

Sailors of a stranded American steamer were accused of imbibing too much liquor after the ship had grounded. Hmmm, it seems that nowadays some of our tars go down the sea in slaps.

Automotive engineers must think they live a frustrated life. They spend a whole year improving everything from the dashboard ash tray to the tail light, and then some sap slaps the whole works against a curb.

LOGICAL

Jones: You know, you'll never have your name inscribed in the Hall of Fame.
Smith: Perhaps not. But I'd rather have people asking me why it isn't there than why it is.

Brief cases are carried by some men because they think it makes them look important. Our granddads wore stopee hats for the same reason. When stopee hats were snowballed out of existence, men turned to something else. First it was shell-rimmed specs and when they became too common, they adopted the brief case.

JUST A TEACHER'S ERROR

Father: What's this I hear about your little brother being punished by his teacher just because his nose itched?
Daughter: Yes, but daddy, he didn't tell you that he was scratching it with his thumb!

The upper class is like an upper berth. It's hard to get into; you are apt to be lonely; and dressing is a lot more trouble.

Jack and Jill went up the hill, but what of it? Any Jill can go up hill if she has Jack.

In case you are interested, scientific studies have revealed that the average square yard of garden soil contains 11 earthworms. In the spring when Pa gets to working in the soil there are an even dozen.

After his home had been burglarized six times in the last five weeks, Louis Sweeney, of Philadelphia, organized his family into a standing army, and armed with shotguns, pistols, rifle, etc., they finally caught the intruder. Just goes to show what perseverance will do to a fellow.

It is against the law in Turkestan to whistle, but then we don't imagine that would bother the Turkestanians much, because they don't bathe too often anyhow.

Darwin may have been wrong, but you'll notice that everybody likes to rest with his feet above his head.

Drinking widens your acquaintance. Your friends are such different people when they get a few drinks.

Americanism: Developing anti-aircraft guns that could protect us from bombers; making enough of them to protect about one county.

Another nice name for an infant daughter is Decibel. That's a unit of noise.

Taxes don't really hurt us. We'd just rather spend the money foolishly ourselves than to let the government do it.

ESSAY ON WATER
The following essay on water was submitted by a pupil in the local schools recently.

Water is found everywhere, especially when it rains as it did the other day when our cellar was half full. Mary had to wear her father's rubber boots to get the onions for dinner. Onions make your eyes water and so does horseradish, when you eat too much. There is a good many kinds of water in the world: rainwater, soda water, holy water and brine water is used for a great many things. Sailors use it to go to sea on. If there wasn't any ocean the ship couldn't float and they would have to stay ashore. Water

Looks as if there'd be a January clearance sale o' rubber stamps down in Washington.

Second thoughts are best. When Zack Winters found bear tracks in his wood lot he ran home for his gun and then stayed there.

Getting At Truth For 1938
Can Obstacles Be Overcome?
Plight Of Fascist WorkersBy LESLIE EICHEL,
Central Press Columnist

"YOUR COLUMN paints a gloomy picture for 1938," says a reader. Not necessarily. If we get at the truth, we can get at fundamentals in 1938. If, however, we go in for inflation, and the world goes in for more nationalism, 1938 indeed will be a year which future generations may desire to forget.

Business is likely to build up again in 1938. Inflation, of course, would boost it immensely. But, under ordinary conditions, it would build up, for inventories in many instances are low—and there is an immense amount of idle cash seeking investment.

That is the surface of the situation. The beneath-the-surface condition is another matter. Unless there is a wider distribution of buying power, which may require social readjustments, and unless the barriers of nationalism can be broken down internationally, then there is not likely to be any cure of our present illness effected.

Such readjustments take time. People are impatient and suffering, and inflation and hatred and wars are easy to bring about—thus one merely can pray for clear, calm thinking. And a voice unafraid of the diatribes of the unthinking and the exploiters.

A CHANGED WORLD
We may cry against change, but the world is changing, and the world is changing.

Men have swung to new banners, and in all parts of the world different thoughts clash. In Asia, the Japanese empire has swallowed up area as large as the United States—and in the end even may cease to be an empire. Communism views in China may infect the invaders and spread to the impoverished homeland. So swiftly do the changes of the modern day occur.

We could not revert to where we were, if we would. We must go ahead, in a changed world.

HOW LONG?

How long will Germany and Italy march on with their Nazism-Fascism? For a long time. They have not sent a million men into a vast land where they can be "exterminated" with communism, as has Japan.

We read this explanatory note in The Living Age for January.

"Germany and Italy will not go 'bankrupt,' no matter how serious their difficulties may be; the German and Italian workers will not rise in protest against their masters, no matter how low their wages may be or how hard it becomes to get sufficient food." The reason for this is not always realized, according to Douglas Jay, financial expert of the London Daily Herald:

"Under the Hitler and Mussolini tyrannies there are no trade unions, and all unemployment pay and savings agencies are in the hands of the government. In these conditions no man can strike against the government without facing the certain prospect of starvation within a few days for both himself and his wife and children.

"That is the fundamental reality of a Fascist regime, standing behind a facade of paper propaganda. Add to it the continual threat of spying and terrorism, and you will understand why workers in Germany and Italy are slow to strike, and why a Fascist state can hardly go bankrupt until its people are literally starving.

A VIEW OF U. S.
And here is an interesting review—in London's New Statesman and Nation—on a book called "Dusk of Europe," by Wythe Williams, an American:

"By virtue of his position as foreign correspondent to various American newspapers, Mr. Williams has seen a good deal of the important international crises during the quarter century, 1910-35.

The World AND THE Mud Puddles

A-BAS DOUBLE FEATURES

The newspaper man was promoted to Movie critic. He didn't want the job, but he was told to take it, or else. So he would drift in to see the pictures on schedule, and when he came out would rush across the street to the drug store and order an aspirin and a glass of water.

The clerk came to know this unwilling movie critic, and as soon as he saw him crossing the street on his reviewing days, would fill a glass of water and place an aspirin inside it. The critic never talked much; just swallowed the aspirin, paid, and walked out.

Came the day, however, when the critic dashed in before the clerk had a chance to fill the customary order.

"Quick," cries the critic. "Two aspirin and a glass of water."

"Two aspirin?" asked the clerk in surprise.

"You heard me. They played a double feature."

Once Upon A Time—The first

American known to have set in a British queen's lap was Charles S. Stratton, who was born 100 years ago today on a New Hampshire farm. He was 17 years old, weighed 24 pounds and was two-feet tall when another New Englander, P. T. Barnum, named him Gen. Tom Thumb and started making him world famous. So famous that when, at 25, he wed Mercy Lavinia Bump, aged 22, called by Barnum Lavinia Warren, the wedding got more attention for the week than the War Between the States!

Mrs. Stratton bore him a normal-sized daughter who died at 2 1/2 years. Stratton himself died at 45, forty inches tall and a millionaire. His widow remarried to Count Primo Magri, another midget whose title was genuine.

Stratton probably would have lived longer, contrary to belief that all midgets and giants die young, if he hadn't been a heavy drinker. Barnum used to lock him up to keep him sober. One device Stratton used to get his whiskey anyway, was to shove money under the door and bribe a servant to buy a bottle of hooch and a tobacco pipe. The key steam was inserted through the keyhole and into the midget's mouth, and the liquor poured into it.

The royal lap into which limbed Gen. Tom when in his twenties, was that of England's Victoria. Unfortunately, no photographer was handy to record the event for posterity, as when a female midget set upon J. P. Morgan's knee in Washington.

On Other Jan. 4ths, 1785—Jacob Ludwig Karl Grimm was born in Hanau, Hesse-Cassel, a year after his brother & collaborator. The fairy tales these professors collected as a critical study of the mythological beliefs of people, made those beliefs more popular and perpetuated their own names as fairy-tale tellers! Typical Grimm story, "Snow White" the basis of the first Walt Disney feature length movie.

1858—Carter Glass, President Roosevelt's friend and foe, and senator from Virginia, was born. 25 Years Ago Today—What is referred to as the first appendicitis operation in the U. S. was performed by Dr. William W. Crutcher at Davenport, Ia.

A recent survey by a major insurance company concludes: "The mortality from appendicitis is today much higher among us than it was a quarter century ago." Maybe the number of appendicitis operations has something to do with it: 2,000 are performed in this country every day.

25 Years Ago Today—The (George H.) Pendleton Act, under which national civil service was reformed and theoretically removed from politics, became law. Politicians defeated Pendleton in the next election, and have virtually nullified the law since. Of 268,573 jobholders placed on the federal payroll in the Roosevelt Administration, 152,578 do not come under civil-service regulations.

1920—France gave permission for removal of bodies of 20,000 American soldiers from cemeteries there. It was quite a sacrifice for the French to make: it meant giving up a lot of grave rent. (They have collected rent for American cemeteries over there, just as they collected rent for trenches in which the A. E. F. fought to save France.)

What Noted People Say

(International News Service)

CHICAGO—George Cardinal Mundelein assails the "selfish employment of money."

These men practice social injustice when they fight against a minimum wage law and we find girls and women trying to live on 10 and 15 cents an hour.

WASHINGTON—Senator La Follette (D) of Wisconsin recommends a tremendous, long range public works program, financed by heavier taxes upon those able to pay.

"In a democratic country the people have a right to demand that government keep order in our economic house as well as police our streets."

CHICAGO—The Rev. Dr. C. M. Wei, noted Chinese educator, asserts China never will be conquered: "In each of the cities Japan has taken, the world sees another Japanese victory—but people do not realize that the Japanese influence can extend no more than a radius of 50 miles from these captured towns."

NEW YORK—Bernard F. Gimbel, leading merchant, notes definite signs that employers and employees will get together during the coming year.

"This raises the hope that the worst of the effects of labor disturbances are behind us."

Hints On Etiquette

Letters of condolence should be brief, avoiding any reference which might bring pain to the recipient.

A Liberal is an educated guy who can use soothing words that don't scare anybody when he wants to say "depression" or "inflation."

That is, adversity toughens and strengthens a man unless he finds it in his own home.

Happenings And Items Of Interest At Big Tin Plate Plants Here.

Why the Packing and Shipping Department is Important in the Manufacture of Tin Plate. By Packing and Shipping Organization, Shenango Works.

It is the job of the Packing and Shipping Department to prepare for loading the plates as per the customers' orders.

When the plate is delivered to the packing room, it may be packed in many different ways. This depends a good deal on the customer's facilities for handling, and the distance to the delivery point.

Plates are delivered from the packing room to the packing room by crane. When received, they are packed as specified on the orders. Some of the plates going to foreign countries are packed in a tin lined case. This is a tin case made in the form of a box in which the plates are packed and then soldered up airtight and watertight. After soldering they are placed in a wood box and the covers nailed on. Other foreign country shipments are packed in wood boxes of 56 sheets or 112 sheets of plate per package. These are all wire strapped and marked with the port marks of the various countries.

Many of the foreign countries use the metric system of measurements, and it is necessary in some cases to mark the sizes and the weights of the packages in the metric system.

We also pack some of our production in ten-package fibre or metal containers. These consist of ten packages of plates of 112 sheets each, placed on a platform and covered with a fibre or metal cover and then wired to the platform. These containers will weigh from one ton to one and one-half tons per package and are all handled by electric lift trucks.

As the packing and shipping of the plate is the last contact we have with it until it reaches the customer, we must be very careful that he gets what he ordered.

We often think what strange stories could be written when you consider that tin plates from Shenango Works are shipped to all points of the United States, from Portland, Maine, to Portland, Oregon; also to the Hawaiian Island via the Panama Canal; to China, India, South Africa, South America; in fact to all corners of the globe.

The packing and shipping department consists of three units, namely the packing room, warehouse and empty box house. The packing room has approximately 125 to 150 employees—the warehouse 40 and empty box house about 25.

Many hazards are encountered in this department from the standpoint of safety—such as fast moving tractors loaded with plate, striking hands while nailing boxes, and loose ends of wires while strapping, etc. However, this department is "safety conscious" as is shown by their department safety records. The packing room has accumulated 124 safety consecutive days, the warehouse 3251 safe days and the empty box house 1358 safe days.

READY FOR THE CUSTOMER

Only when we are thoroughly satisfied that our product meets both the specifications imposed by our customers and the rigid requirements set up by our company, is the product released for shipment.

Railroad facilities are employed to transport by far the largest part of the steel shipped from the mills to the buyers. Approximately one out of every eight tons of freight hauled by the Class 1 railroads of the country in a recent six-month period consisted of raw materials going to the steel mills or finished products coming from them.

Due to its universal use throughout the four corners of the globe, it is necessary that tin plate be transported by way of steamship, and we might pause for the moment to note what progress has been made with steel in the construction of steamships. Down through the centuries has come a long parade of building progress. From the time primitive man built crude rafts of two logs, secured with vegetable fibres, to the present era of scientific shipbuilding, the march has been almost constantly forward. But advancement has not been easily won. For ages, shipbuilders had to shape vessels out of wood. Whole forests were laid low for the building of fleets of wooden ships—oak-ribbed craft of the stalwart Vikings or the vast fleets of slave-driven ships on the ancient Mediterranean. Step by step as early history unfolds its shadowy pages, man became more ingenious; he applied more brains and less brawn in ship building. He gained skill in designing vessels that would go farther with greater facility and withstand the worst battering of wind and wave. Now, by applying scientific principles, he builds ships that must serve the multiple needs of a highly competitive era. They must carry a wide variety of cargoes and meet all kinds of conditions the world over. These complex requirements are being well met by steel, which is being fashioned at the will of science, into modern wonders of the Seven Seas.

The Isthmian Steamship Lines, a U. S. Steel subsidiary, operate fleets of these modern wonders of the seas, and carry our product by sea from coast to coast through the Panama Canal, and to other far distant points of the earth. These ships also bring to us the tin metal, or "pig tin" from far off Malaya Straits. These Twentieth Century cargo carriers are built by the Federal Shipbuilding and Dry Dock Co., also a U. S. Steel subsidiary, entirely of steel and denote a decided step forward in the march of shipbuilding progress with steel.

FIFTY YEARS AGO IN STEEL

Existence of a worm that ate up steel rails was reported in 1887 by a commission appointed by the German government to investigate a series of accidents that had occurred near Hasen. The Cologne Gazette quoted the commission's report as saying that a thin gray worm, a few centimeters in length and the size of the prong of a silver fork in circumference, devoured 36 kilograms of rail in a fortnight. This voracious worm was reported to have softened the iron before eating by spraying it with a corrosive solution secreted by two glands in its head. American metallurgists have never reported the existence of such a creature, which might indicate that steel-eating worms did not travel very far from their home land.

A YULETIDE EVENT

The annual Christmas party was held in the cost department on Friday, December 24, 1937. This department has followed out this pleasing event for many years. A small Christmas tree was set up and decorated with the usual trimmings, and gifts—many of them of a humorous nature—were carefully wrapped in the prescribed Christmas manner and labeled with the names of the various members of the department. Particularly we noted the fine grade of leather in a trousers belt received by Mr. Christman, works auditor, which fitted him very snugly; also the item of ladies' apparel received by Miss Truxall.

This Christmas party is looked forward to each year, and a lot of wholesome fun is had.

THE CASUAL OBSERVER NOTES THAT

Life may not begin at 40 for the steel worker, but at that age he is about 230,000 of his fellow-employees in the steel industry. In other words, two out of every five employees of the steel industry are over 40 years of age. This is based on reports received from companies employing two-thirds of the industry's workers.

The first iron produced in America in Lynn, Mass., was cast into a one-quart pot which still is in existence.

Some steel companies buy thousands of young saplings a year from farmers to use in stirring ladles of molten steel.

John Rooney, machine shop, recently won a popular make of automobile at a local theater, thereby dispelling all statements to the contrary that there is no Santa Claus. Congratulations John.

That the General Labor department has completed the year 1937 without a single lost time accident, and foreman, Jim Conway, is all set to pass out the cigars to these safety conscious workers. These men are 100 per cent "sold" on safety, and we know of no better Christmas present than to be able to complete the year's work without loss of life or limb, or any serious injury; also to be able to return to one's family each evening of every day of the year intact, and enjoy the blessings of life. We take this opportunity to congratulate this department and all others who have such outstanding safety records for the year.

Dan McCarthy, plant safety director, recently unearthed several very interesting cartoons drawn by J. K. Lamoree approximately 20 years ago. The object of these cartoons was to promote safety, and while great strides have been accomplished in safety at Shenango Works since that time, nevertheless they still maintain a pertinent relation to safety as it is practiced in our plant today. Mr. Lamoree—or better known to many of us as "Jim Lamoree"—has moved up the ladder and on to other units of the corporation, but his genial personality is remembered by many of us, and is reflected in his humorous cartoons on safety many of which have been posted around the plant and are causing a lot of favorable comment.

We regret to learn that Miss Helen Mosely, secretary to general superintendent, fell and fractured her arm. We hope that her recovery will be speedy.

Joseph Hubbard Davis, engineering department, flew to his home in Norfolk, Va., over the holidays.

HE SELLS 20 MILLION POUNDS OF TOBACCO A YEAR

Bob Cooper—tobacco auctioneer—tells why he, and other tobacco experts, prefer Luckies...

"I've been auctioneering for 20 years," says Mr. Cooper, "in Georgia, North Carolina and Tennessee...and I've seen the tobacco Lucky Strike buys at auction after auction. It's the best in smoking quality."

"Luckies suit my throat, too, as well as my taste. Even after crying out bids 7 hours a day, Luckies never bother my throat in the least." (Reason: the exclusive "Toasting" process expels certain irritants found in all tobacco.)

"In every section of the Tobacco Belt where I auctioneer," Mr. Cooper adds, "I've noticed tobacco men smoking Luckies."

Are you benefiting by the experience of the tobacco experts?...Sworn records show that among independent tobacco experts, Luckies have twice, yes—twice, as many exclusive smokers as have all other cigarettes combined.

Squire Coates Retires After 30 Years Service

Herbert G. Coates, known to his many friends as "Squire," retired on Monday from a post which he has filled constantly for the past 30 years. Since 1907 Mr. Coates has been holding the office of alderman in the Seventh ward.

In 1907 he was named to fill the unexpired term of George B. McClain, who passed away while in office. Since that time he has been re-elected many times on his own behalf.

His first office in the ward was opened on Cherry street, being moved to various other locations later. The office of H. G. Coates, at the corner of Cedar street and Cherry street, has been his headquarters for the past 15 years.

Mr. Coates was in charge of construction work on the B. & O. railroad line between the New Castle Junction and Hazleton, Pa., nearly 40 years ago.

With the betterment of his community in view, Alderman Coates worked on many ideas and improvements for the Seventh ward during his term in office.

One of the main improvements which is now nearing completion is the work being done in the Shenango river. For six years, Mr. Coates had been trying to have this task of building a wall to protect the Cherry street bridge from being washed away started, and finally in 1937 the project was inaugurated.

Although his years as alderman are at an end, Mr. Coates still has in mind his community. He is at the present time working on a plan to extend Lafayette street over the P. R. R. tracks, having a viaduct constructed, and thus eliminate the treacherous Pitzer hill and the yearly high water.

Alderman Coates is now completely retired from work, while his insurance and real estate work is being taken over by his son, Clarence, and daughter, Bessie Coates Pitzer.

On Monday morning, T. C. Rainey, alderman-elect for the Seventh ward, was sworn in, and has now taken over the duties formerly handled by Mr. Coates. Rainey has his office located on North Liberty street.

"Burglar-Proof"
Vault Entered,
$25,000 Stolen

Mystery How Anyone Could Have Lifted Money From
New York Vault

(International News Service)
NEW YORK, Jan. 4.—Mysterious disappearance of $25,000 in cash from the "burglar proof" vault of the Bensonhurst National Bank in Brooklyn, was revealed today.

The money disappeared from the locked vault between 4:30 yesterday afternoon and 7:30 last night.

William Behan, a teller, had counted the $25,000 in crisp bills and put them in the vault. Three hours later, he entered the steel-walled room with another $33,000 and found the original $25,000 had vanished.

Officials of the bank refused to discuss the matter, other than to say:

"We might have a statement later in the day."

"The U. S. A. is Britain's legitimate successor. It may be claimed for her that she is the most efficient representative now of that system of beliefs, liberal-democracy and the primacy of the trader, which once gave Britain an ascendancy over a world consisting largely of quiescent populations. On that argument it only remains for her right to leadership to be confirmed in the second Armageddon which Mr. Williams forges."

"But that is to leave a lot out of the picture. The next world conflict (which perhaps has already broken out locally in Spain and China), may turn out to be an international civil war in which those beliefs which elevated Britain will disappear or be transformed into something beneficial to more people than the constitution of one nation can contain."

"Who actually holds world-leadership now? To judge by the newspapers, you would think that the economically second-rate powers of Germany and Italy not only lead the world, but lead it by the nose. As a sensible corrective to that propaganda, Mr. Williams, insistence on the power and importance of America is worth having."

"We should devote a thought now and then to the military potentialities of the United States—especially as nobody shouts about them."

Senate Committee Inaugurates Probe Of Recession And Relief

Fact-Finding Aim Of Probers

Senator Byrnes, Of South Carolina Is Head Of Investigating Body

BUSINESS LEADERS TO GIVE TESTIMONY

By ROBERT A. MCGILL, International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Jan. 4.—With members calling for cooperation between business and government, a special senate committee today opened a sweeping investigation of the recession, unemployment and relief.

Isador Lubin, department of labor statistician, was summoned as the first witness. Leaders in finance, industry and labor as well as government will be called to state their views.

For Fact-Finding

As chairman Byrnes (D) of South Carolina, convened the committee members emphasized the investigation will be kept free from the warfare some New Dealers have waged on big business, and that it will be confined to fact-finding, with cooperation the keynote.

Senator Hatch (D) of New Mexico, coauthor of the investigation resolution said:

"The purpose of this investigation has always been to make a fair and impartial study of the conditions that cause so much unemployment, and the problems of business and the problems of labor."

"In consideration of the whole question it is not the problems of business alone, nor the government, nor labor, but all combined. And it will take the cooperation of all concerned if we are to get at the bottom of the problems that face us today."

Before the committee initiates its inquiry into the specific causes of the business recession with William S. Knudsen, president of General Motors Corp., on the stand, it will buttress itself with data on unemployment and its subsequent problem of relief.

Included in the list of witnesses for today and tomorrow are Frank Persons, U. S. employment service; Leon Henderson, economic adviser, WPA; and A. J. Altmeier, chairman, social security board.

Quash Charges Against Nine

District Attorney Park Moves To Quash "Third Degree" Murder Charges

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, Jan. 4.—Fayette county's sensational "third degree" cases were formally closed Monday when charges against the remaining nine defendants were quashed by Judge Harry H. Rowand.

Judge Rowand granted two petitions presented by District Attorney Andrew T. Park, one asking that murder charges be dropped against four defendants and the other requesting that charges of being an accessory before and after the fact of murder be dropped against five other defendants.

Cases Turned Over

Park acted within 48 hours after Attorney General Charles J. Mergenthaler left disposition of the nine remaining cases in his hands.

Of the first three defendants brought to trial on murder charges as a result of the death of Frank C. Monaghan, 64, a Uniontown hotel-keeper, one, former state trooper Stacey Gundersen, was convicted. He was found guilty of second degree murder by a jury at Somerset where the case was transferred by the state supreme court but was freed by Supreme Court Justice George W. Maxey after serving some nine months of a sentence of a year less a day. Former State Trooper Anthony Sanute was freed on a directed verdict by Judge Maxey when the jury failed to agree and later District Attorney James A. Reilly of Fayette county was acquitted here in Allegheny county court where the remaining nine cases were transferred by the supreme court.

First Aid Class Gets Under Way

Around Fifty Seek To Qualify As Red Cross First Aid Instructors

TELLS NEED OF FIRST AID WORK

Fifty men and women from various parts of the county were present last evening, when the instructors First Aid course, given under the auspices of Lawrence County Chapter, American Red Cross opened under the direction of Commander W. E. Longfellow, first aid instructor of the National Red Cross.

Included among the number taking the course are four city firemen.

In addressing the class at its opening, Commander Longfellow stated that First Aid instruction enables not only the things to do in case of an accident, but the many things not to do, which the laymen does not know. With over a million persons injured in the United States each year, the need for first aid knowledge was clearly shown.

Many victims of accidents are made worse, he stated, by well-meaning persons, who do not know anything about First Aid, particularly in moving injured persons. The best thing to do in such a case is to let the person lie perfectly still until a competent person arrives to take charge or an ambulance is summoned.

The course consists of thirty hours of instruction, which will be given during the next two weeks, the class meeting nightly except Saturday and Sunday.

FIVE NEGROES BEING HUNTED

Hunt Five For Death Of Officer In South Carolina Town

(International News Service)

ESTILL, S. C., Jan. 4.—Heavily armed and led by bloodhounds, a posse of more than 100 persons today continued an intensive search for five Negro men following the fatal shooting of an officer last night and the critical wounding of another.

A sixth Negro, whose name could not be learned immediately, was held in the custody of officers.

The slain officer was Constable William Gohagan, about 26, and the wounded man is Magistrate N. A. Patterson, 45, whose condition was described by hospital attaches in Savannah, Ga., where he was taken following the shooting, as "critical."

Feeling throughout the section is running high, and officers fear mob violence should the Negroes fall into the hands of private citizens.

The shooting came without warning last night as Patterson and Gohagan attempted to question a group of Negroes riding in a truck.

Letter Sent To Father Here In 1834 Is Revealed

(International News Service)

WILMINGTON, Del., Jan. 4.—College and university students who continuously complain about being tied to their parent's "apron strings" don't know how well off they actually were!

Back in the days when the University of Delaware was known as "New Ark college", a boy, A. P. Robinson, wrote to his father in New Castle, Pa., a letter for permission to come home. It was dated December 1834.

"My dear father," wrote the dutiful son, "Christmas comes on Thursday and it is expected that we shall have four or five holidays and if that should be the case I think that I would like to go to Philadelphia as there will be nothing to do in New Ark, or the college.

"Therefore, I will now ask your permission and if you should continue in writing so that I can get to show it to the faculty and let them know that you are willing."

"I have pretty well gone through my $60 by defraying my expenses," he stated. "I will give you the following bills which I have paid. I leave it to yourself to judge whether I have spent wrongfully or not."

The date marked the second wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Sontag.

Pope Suffers Another Attack

Suffers Severe Attack Of Angina Pectoris, Saved By Powerful Stimulant

(International News Service)
VATICAN CITY, Jan. 4.—Pope Pius today suffered one of the worst attacks of angina pectoris he has endured since his health began to fail.
His heart-beat sank dangerously low when the attack occurred in the early hours of the morning. Amy nitrate, a powerful stimulant, was administered by one of the three male nurses constantly at his bedside.
This prompt action was believed by Vatican officials to have saved the pontiff's life.
The pain passed and the pontiff recovered sufficiently around noon to receive the vice-president of Eire the new Irish free state, in private audience.
Meanwhile, it was learned that Donna Camille Ratti, sister of the Pope, had been ill with influenza for several days. News of her illness has been kept from the pontiff.

Three Arrested On Cow Theft Charge

Trio To Be Given Hearing Tonight Before Squire Ben Thomas

The arm of the law is long as was demonstrated yesterday by Sheriff Cy Ingham, Constables Waddington, Parks and Pennsylvania motor policemen. As a result two men and a son of one of the men are under arrest, having been charged with the larceny of a cow which was butchered, part of which was recovered by the officers yesterday.

It appears that early November 7 a cow was stolen from the barn of Lyle Hill, New Castle R. D. 1. It was driven through fields for a distance of one mile then butchered. The meat was hauled away.

Hill reported his loss and the various agencies of the law went to work. The investigation resulted yesterday in an alleged portion of the cow being found, police say.

According to the authorities, the meat was hung in a well on the farm of Ralph Gengaro, in the vicinity of East Brook. He was arrested as was Oliver Price and Tony Gengaro 15 year old son of Ralph.

Information was sworn to and Sheriff Ingham arrested the trio. They were placed in jail and will be arraigned before Squire Ben Thomas R. D. 1, tonight, according to authorities.

ORDER SEEDS EARLY FOR GROWING PLANTS

Seedsman are alert to the demands of vegetable growers and the best selections are sold first. It is necessary, therefore, to order early to be sure of getting the choicest lots.

To acquaint vegetable growers with the best strains 111 variety demonstrations were conducted by the agricultural extension service in 29 Pennsylvania counties this year. Selections for these projects were made from detailed records of type and yield taken at the agricultural experiment station of the Pennsylvania State College.

A general list of vegetable varieties for 1938 is being prepared and will be distributed to those who request it at the Agricultural Extension Association's Office, No. 206 Post Office Building, New Castle as soon as available.

Demonstrations in early cabbage have shown Golden Acre to be generally adapted to Pennsylvania conditions. Louisiana Copenhagen is a new, very small uniform strain of this variety. Resistant Golden Acre or Resistant Detroit is a newly developed strain for resistance to cabbage yellow. It is a true Golden Acre variety, but the heads are described as large for this variety and only fairly uniform or not so firm as the best strains.

Later maturing varieties of cabbage are Copenhagen Market, Glory, and Marion Market, a yellows-resistant strain for fall.

WINTER IS GOOD TIME TO DO ESSENTIAL WORK

Winter is not a period of idleness for the flower gardener and the home grounds caretaker. There are many tasks which must be done and other jobs which are in preparation for the busy spring season.

Leafy or straw mulch on the flower garden can be kept from blowing away by laying branches of trees on it.

In case of a heavy snow fall a broom may be used to remove the snow from the evergreens. Expensive plant materials often have been ruined in a few minutes during heavy snow or sleet storm.

Now is the time to fill in the ruts in walks or driveways. Native stone can be used for this purpose. A covering of coal ashes placed over the stone will assist materially in binding the heavier stone material together.

Where large deciduous or evergreen trees are to be moved to a new location, dig a trench around the tree three feet or more from the tree and allow the ball of earth to become frozen. The tree then can be moved satisfactorily when snow is on the ground, provided a heavy sled is used.

Begin now to make plans for further development of the home grounds. Seed catalogues, nursery catalogues, and other garden literature read during the winter evenings will help during the coming year.

Suitable soil for starting seed can be prepared now. A mixture of clean light garden loam, decayed leaf mold, peat moss and a small amount of sand should be obtained. These materials can be stored separately or the mixing done now to save time during later winter or early spring when time is valuable.

A compost heap can be started in some section near the flower garden but in an area which is partially if not entirely secluded from the view of the house.

BULL ASSOCIATION HELP DAIRY HERDS

Pennsylvania dairymen are improving their herds through cooperative use of sires in bull associations.

An excellent example of the value of this type of work is shown by the records of association members in Juniata County. Some of these herd owners have used association bulls continuously for 14 years.

Eight members' herds had an average production of 7,992 pounds of milk and 282.2 pounds of butterfat for the first year in the cow testing association, while the average production of these same herds for the year ending in 1936 was 10,824 pounds of milk and 373.2 pounds of butterfat. This shows an average increase of 2,832 pounds of milk and 91.2 pounds of butterfat. The five high herds in the Juniata cow testing association for the year ending

In 1936 were owned by bull association members, and many of the high herds in other counties also are composed of daughters of bull association sires.

Several bull associations in Pennsylvania have been in continuous operation for 10 to 15 years. The cooperative use of sires in full associations has been proved practical and sound. Similar results may be expected by other dairymen who are planning to improve their herds the bull association way.

WELL-FITTED GLOVES INSURE BETTER WEAR

This is the glove season when it is not only fashionable but practical to keep the hands covered for all outdoor occasions.

The wearing quality of gloves is determined by the quality of the skin from which they are made, the methods used in their construction and the care which they receive when being worn says Miss Mary Vogle, home economics extension representative of Lawrence county.

Quality of skin depends primarily upon the health of the animal from which it came, the food he ate, and the climate in which he grew. If all of these conditions were favorable, a fine healthy skin or hide which is the first essential of good leather will result.

Most leather gloves are made from sheep, goat, lamb and pigskin, but are usually trade-marked by the name of the finish. Thus suede gloves may be made from any of these skins as long as the leather has been buffed on the flesh side.

Thickness of leather does not necessarily indicate strength. Any fine leather, regardless of thickness, is soft and supple and will feel "alive" when drawn through the fingers.

Simply cut gloves will never wear satisfactorily. The most expensive gloves are usually table cut, meaning that they are cut by hand and the leather has been hand-stretched so it has just the right "give" to it. Most gloves, however, are machine or pattern cut. Labels on gloves usually indicate when they have been hand cut.

A good quality of thread and fine stitches are important if a glove is to wear well. Hand sewed gloves are usually more expensive than machine stitched gloves. In either case the seams should be wide enough to resist pulling out.

The right hand is usually the largest. When buying gloves it is important to fit them closely enough to permit easy bending of fingers and use of the hands. A tight fitting glove will usually result in burst seams.

Adequate care of gloves is also important reminds Miss Vogle. Never try to wash leather gloves that are not marked "washable." For the others, keep them on the hands and wash gently in lukewarm soap suds. Rinse in clean warm water, but do not entirely wash out all the soap. Leaving a small amount in the gloves will act as an "oiling" and help to keep them supple.

Pat the water out of the gloves with a soft towel, pull them lengthwise into shape and blow into them to fill out the fingers. Lay on a clean cloth to dry away from extreme heat or moisture. If the gloves are gently worked on the hands before they are quite dry, it will relieve any straining of the leather which might otherwise occur.

SIMPLE DESIGNS BEST FOR HOME ACCESSORIES

To many homemakers long evenings mean an opportunity to make accessories for the home or for gifts. In some places craft or home industries bring added income to the family.

Whatever the interest is, any article made should be useful, practical, simple in design, and made for a definite purpose, according to Miss Mary Vogle, home economics extension representative of Lawrence county.

Too many homes are already crowded with small objects, pictures, or pillows. Accessories should never be allowed to dominate a room. Because of this, one should be only careful in the number but in the selection.

When selecting materials for a pillow, a table runner or a bureau scarf, consider the color, design and texture of materials already in the room. Conventional designs which follow the shape and lines of the article are more effective than realistic designs.

Color in accessories may be a means of tying together other colors used in the room. Accessories may bring in more color but should not be the center of interest. They should always be in harmony with other things in the room.

Articles made for sale will have greater appeal if they have simple designs, subdued colors well blended, and a high standard of workmanship.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 4.—Secretary of State Cordell Hull knows what caused the recession.

He does not tell what caused it. He cannot do so, for his diagnosis differs from his administration's diagnosis. His departmental policy proves that he understands the situation, however. And he has been doing his best, and continues to do his best to give the recession patient what manifestly is the right medicine.

He cannot advertise his medicine as it ought to be advertised, for it is unpopular. The less he talks about it the better. All he can do is to administer smallish doses of it as surreptitiously as possible. Bigger doses would "take" faster, but he cannot give bigger doses without attracting too much attention to them. Then the public would balk at even his little doses. We are lucky in that he is "getting away" with his homeopathic dosage. That, in fact, is somewhat resented. If he attempted allopathic treatment he would start an outright "holier," and his remedy would be banned completely.

TRADE SHUT OFF
What caused the recession?
Why, it is as plain as the nose on an elephant's face.

It was caused by saturation of the American demand for American products. Consequently our local production piles up on us.

The remedy? Foreign markets, naturally—a greater demand.

Why is the foreign demand so limited?
Obvious answer:
Our protective tariff policy prohibits (or greatly curtails) foreign countries from shipping their surplusages into the United States, to trade off for our surpluses.

WHY NOT EXCHANGE?
For example:
Our automotive industry is laying off hands wholesale.

Why would it not be doing so? Everyone in this country who wants an auto has one—folk on relief, semi-vagrants. We have more autos than we have bathtubs. And those are official figures.

Now, why should we not trade off our surplus autos with other nations which can not turn out autos as cheaply as we can, for their products, where they can be produced more cheaply than we can produce them? Coffee or bananas?—we can't produce either of them. Silk?—which we can't produce at all.

Plenty of little gadgets, that central Europe is cleverer at than we are.

I could go on into sugar—but that is a very sensitive subject.

HULL'S SLOW PROGRESS
Well, we could extend our markets indefinitely into these other countries if we would admit their stuff more freely, to swap with us.

But we have that protective tariff complex, of ours, to reckon with.

Secretary Hull has not got it. "Reciprocal trade agreements" are his motto.

I know he would like to throw trade barriers down completely, but he cannot do it in the face of our traditional protective "bugs".

He is doing it as fast as he can, anyway.

HULL "DROWNED OUT"
A country which is economically bottled up is certain to have its economic troubles, of a world character.

Secretary Hull is a world economist.

He is drowned out by chatter as to capital-and-labor disputes and overinventories. Incidentally, it undoubtedly is a complication to have another world war threatening.

Pontius Returns To New Destroyer

Gerald (Jiggs) Pontius made a flying trip from Brooklyn Navy Yard, to visit his sister, Mrs. Geraldine Mills, of Allen street, for a couple of days over New Year's, returning early Monday morning to go aboard the U. S. destroyer Fanning for her 5000-mile test.

She was commissioned last November and will have a "shake-down" crew for her seaworthiness test. The Fanning, numbered 385, is one of the new U. S. destroyers of the first line, of 1500 tons. She has a crew of 160 officers and men. In rough seas the ship rolls considerably, and the hatches have to be "dogged down."

She is an all-steel ship, with quarter-inch steel side plates. The temperature in the fire-room when cruising in southern waters gets up around 165 degrees, and when some of the crew wash out some clothing, they take them down there to dry, and it does not take long. The fireproof work four hours shifts, eight hours off and four hours on. Young Pontius (fine physique) is now "torpedo man striker" and will take an examination this quarter, and hopes to get a third-class rating as torpedo man.

Spare Time Is His Worry Now

(International News Service)
BINGHAMTON, N. Y., Jan. 4.—Earl B. Wheaton, who retired as mail carrier here after 35 years service, still doesn't know what to do with his spare time.

Doubtfully he viewed the future. "I might," he said, "do some gardening—that's a hobby of mine."

During his years of service Wheaton has carried thousands of pounds of letters, newspapers, magazines and small bundles—and walked thousands of miles.

December 29th when he hung up his worn leather bag for the last time he still hadn't made up his mind whether or not he likes the idea of retirement.

Another of his hobbies is music. He has played the violin for years and is prominent in the railroad YMCA orchestra.

He served under Presidents Theodore Roosevelt, Taft, Wilson, Harding, Coolidge, Hoover and Roosevelt.

Memorial For Famed Aviators

(International News Service)
PITTSBURGH, Jan. 4.—A light visible for 200 miles will shine from the Allegheny county airport in memory of three famed local aviators.

The $50,000 memorial, designed by Architect Theodore Nicholas, was recently approved by the county commissioners.

The memorial will take form of a granite column, 30 feet high, standing in front of the airport's administration building.

A plaque at the base will be inscribed with the names of George Langley, who, friends claim, designed the first navigable airplane; Col. William Thaw, noted wartime ace, and Halberth Roders, first successful transcontinental flier.

Golf Head Praises Fine Sportsmanship Shown By Players

More Interest Being Taken In Golf Than Ever Before, Is Report

Snead, Goodman, Smith, Shute And Guldhaf Few Of Stars Of 1937

By JOHN G. JACKSON
President, United States Golf Association

(Written Especially For International News Service)

NEW YORK, Jan. 4.—In reminiscence 1937 provides gratifying memories to those who have golf's best interests at heart, and gives a basis for believing the new year will be a happy one.

A most satisfactory feature of 1937 was the appreciation of the game's value and of championship play in districts unused to United States Golf Association championships—Portland, Oregon, where the amateur championship was held for the first time, at the Alderwood Club, San Francisco and Memphis, which entertained their first U. S. G. A. championships, the amateur public links and the women's, at Harding Park and Memphis Country Club respectively.

Fine Sportsmanship
A splendid spirit of sportsmanship was evident on each occasion, as well as at Oakland Hills in Detroit, where a very successful open was played. It is good for the game to spread the championships over the country, as far as circumstances permit. In 1938 the amateur championship will be held at Oakmont. The Cherry Hills Club at Denver will be the scene of the open—the farthest west that that event has ever been held.

The last year was one of continued and sound growth in golf. There was more group instruction by professionals, some of it free and much of it in schools; more interest in municipal courses; more interest in the great traditions of the game and greater appreciation of its value as a sport. There were record entries for the intercollegiate and the open championships. In spite of the fact that the amateur championship was held in the Pacific northwest and so remote from the greater mass of golfers, there were 619 entries.

The open entries numbered 1,402, as against a previous high of 1,277.

Splendid Champions
Splendid champions evolved. John Goodman, by winning the amateur championship, joined the company of Travers, Ouimet, Evans and Jones as winners of both the amateur and the open championships, and a worthy winner he was in every sense of the word. Mrs. Julius A. Pate Jr., came into the women's championship. Fred Haas, Jr., won the intercollegiate and Bruce N. McCormick the amateur public links championship. Ralph Guldhaf won the open with the best score in history, 281, seven under par. Denny Shute gained the professional golfers' association championship for the second successive year, and American professionals defeated the British for the Ryder Cup.

All along the line scoring ran low, bespeaking credit to golfers' skill but causing the U. S. G. A. concern as to the degree that this was due to distance and if so, how that, in the best interests of the players of the game, should be dealt with.

In 1937 qualifying rounds for the amateur championship proper were revived and all-match play abandoned, and that seemed to meet with general approval, especially as the qualifying number was raised to 64.

Play Ball Out
Successful trial was made of a recommendation that in stroke play the ball nearer the hole be played out instead of first lifted.

With the new year the so-called 14-club rule came into effect as an amended preamble to the rules: "The game of golf consists in a ball being played from the teeing ground into the hole by successive strokes, with clubs (not exceeding fourteen in number) and balls made in conformity with the directions laid down in the clause on 'form and make of golf clubs and balls.'" To some degree a player will not now be able to "buy his shots over the counter." Caddies will be relieved and skill at the game emphasized.

Steele Favored Over Apostoli

World Middleweight Champion Will Meet European Champ In Non-Title Bout

By LAWTON CARVER
International News Service Sports Writer

NEW YORK, Jan. 4.—Probably because he did it once before, Freddy Steele of Tacoma, Wash., generally recognized as world middleweight champion, is expected to beat Fred Apostoli of San Francisco, the European champion, in a 12-round non-title match Friday night.

The betting odds are 9 to 5 on Steele, but with little money in sight either way.

In the only previous match between the two far westerners Steele, a comparative veteran at the time, caught Apostoli in his seventh professional start and scored a technical knockout in the 10th and final round of a bruising battle at San Francisco. That was in 1935. Apostoli was sufficiently well-equipped to technically knock out Marcel Thil of France recently and earn European—if not world—recognition. Thil having taken the title from Gorilla Jones. However, Babe Risko came along to be recognized by the New York commission and Steele beat the Syracuse sailor for whatever hold that gave him on the crown.

The point of it all seems to be that Steele and Apostoli will be rematched next summer in an outdoor show with the title at stake.

Two Changes In Football Rules

(International News Service)

BILOXI, Miss., Jan. 4.—College football today boasted two new rules designed to aid the offensive team and to build up scoring.

Created by the rules committee of the National Collegiate Athletic Association here, they will go into effect with the 1938 season.

W. R. Okeson, chairman of the committee, announced:

1. All forward passes tossed over the goal line and then becoming incomplete, except those made on the fourth down, will be treated as though the ball struck the ground on the field of play.

At present any incomplete pass over a goal line results in a touchback, automatically transferring the ball to the defensive team 20 yards out.

Three Tries

The rule change permits three tries for a scoring pass instead of one.

An incomplete toss behind the chalk line on the fourth down will, as now, result in a touchback.

2. When the ball goes out of bounds between the goal lines or becomes dead within fifteen yards of sidelines, it shall be put in play at a spot fifteen yards from that line instead of ten yards as heretofore.

The two rule changes were heralded by the coaches as a great aid to the offense of the game, with a corresponding build-up in spectator interest.

Dana X. Bible of the Texas university said the change would give the attacking quarterback greater choice of plays within the 20-yard area or close to the sidelines. He added:

"It will break up compact defense and result in more scoring."

Another proposed change, which would impose a penalty for intentionally grounded passes, was referred to a sub-committee for study.

Metz Realizes Life's Ambition By Perfect Game

George Metz, veteran duck-pin bowler, and superintendent of the Fleming Structural Steel company, who has been tossing them down the hardwood alleys for about 25 years, on Friday, December 31, realized the ambition of every bowler, a perfect 300 game. The feat was accomplished at the Castle alleys.

Metz was bowling with Les Roberts at the time he made his "perfect" 12 strikes. Besides his perfect game, he had 214, 224 for a series of 733, which is about as fine a series as has ever been rolled here in duckpins.

Several times Metz has come close to the coveted game, and finally did arrive. He is being congratulated on all sides by his many friends. In his heyday, Metz states that he pitched a no-hit no-run game. Quite an all-around athlete this fellow.

Stock Market
Higher TodayMarket Continues Spurt Today Under Lead Of Armament SharesBy LESLIE GOULD
International News Service
Financial Writer

NEW YORK, Jan. 4.—The stock market spurted 1 to more than 3 points today under the continued lead of armament shares, as Wall Street recovered from the effects of yesterday's default by the Erie railroad.

While volume again was of limited proportions, leaders forged ahead easily on small sales. Steels, aviation, coppers, motors and blue-chips chalked up the largest gains. Erie stocks regained a portion of their sharp losses into new low ground, bringing a generally improved tone to the rail list, which weakened yesterday on news of the default.

Steels were particularly strong. Bethlehem was up 3 1/2 points at one time and U. S. Steel almost as much. The latter opened 1 1/2 points higher on a block of 4,000 shares. Youngstown Sheet & Tube climbed better than 2 points.

Douglas jumped more than 2 points and Boeing slightly less in the buoyant aviation section. Chrysler advanced 3 points and General Motors half as much before profit taking was encountered. Hudson spurted a point on its new car announcement. Gains of a point or more were shown by Anaconda, American Smelting and International Nickel in the metals; U. S. Rubber; Sears Roebuck and Montgomery Ward in the mail orders; McIntyre and Dornier in the gold mining shares; Phillips Petroleum, Standard of N. J. and Texas Corp. in the oils; and Case and International Harvester in the farm implements. Philip Morris jumped almost 4 and American Tobacco "B" more than 2 in the tobaccos. Westinghouse Electric was up almost 4 at one time.

C. M. Parshall, Councilman

ELLWOOD CITY, Jan. 4.—A. J. Howell was distinctly honored on Monday evening when he was re-elected president of the Ellwood City boro council, when conforming with the state law the council met for a re-organization meeting.

Mr. Howell is one of this city's most prominent men, being the local highway express agent, and has a host of friends who congratulate him on his re-election. Upon taking the chair, Mr. Howell thanked the members of the council for the honor bestowed upon him and said, "It is my desire to conduct the affairs of the boro as efficiently and economically as we can."

P. N. Harlan nominated Mr. Howell and Harry Kaplan offered the second. Elmer Greenham nominated Paxton Pike and H. E. Biorli offered the second. T. C. Marshall, Byron McCandless and R. T. Sittler were appointed tellers with the vote being 5 to 4. Mr. Greenham moved that the vote be unanimous and Mr. Pike made the second.

William McGinley, burgess, presided during the business session and read the certificates and oaths of office of the five councilmen elected in November, Elmer Greenham, first ward; Nick Lanzl, second ward; Clyde S. Hill, third ward; A. J. Howell, fourth ward; and Robert Curry, fifth ward.

The resignation of Mr. McGinley, first ward councilman was read and placed on file and Clark M. Parshall was elected to fill the vacancy. Mr. Parshall was nominated by Mr. Curry and J. J. Menice, retiring councilman of first ward, was nominated by H. E. Biorli. The vote was 5 to 4 with Thomas Slater, Mr. Parillo and Benny Rocca, as tellers.

Ernest B. Moyer was re-named secretary and H. H. Hancher was elected treasurer with five applicants having been received for the position. Mr. Hancher received five votes with C. C. Hall, Joseph Wilkoffsky and Frank Wigton, as tellers.

A. D. Henderson, E. J. Reinheimer and J. J. Menice, the retiring councilmen, each expressed their thanks for the co-operation that the other members had displayed during their years of splendid service to the city. R. T. Sittler, the retiring burgess, said that he had his swan song prepared but it had been spoken by the other retiring officers. He made a special plea to the councilmen, "To stand one hundred per cent behind the burgess in the new traffic program he wishes to put into force."

Burgess McGinley spoke and thanked Mr. Sittler for his consideration to him in the past weeks and his helpful explanation of the office's functions. Mr. Glincey then made a plea to the new board "To be big, to stand up behind your decisions, cut the back-passing and petty animosities, and be the illustrious board that you should be." Mr. McGinley said that he wanted to improve traffic conditions, and continued "I want you to back me to the hilt, I want to enforce that branch of the law, and I want to be backed up."

An expression of thanks was expressed by J. J. Menice to Lowell W. Monroe, boro manager, and E. B. Moyer, boro secretary.

There was a large crowd of interested spectators at the meeting. A. J. Howell was re-elected a member of the public library board. J. R. Schull, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, said that the Kiwanis club wished to make a temporary skating rink in Ewing Park near the tennis courts and asked the council for permission to use two boro trucks to haul sand for the project. The Jones company is donating the sand and the Kiwanis club, the water, and actual labor.

After some discussion, permission was granted. The abutting property is owned by the National Tube company, who favor the project. Adjournment was taken to Thursday evening, the regular January meeting, at which time some attention will be given to the proposed budget.

Football Banquet

High-Light Of WeekMany Football Notables To Participate In Community Tribute

ELLWOOD CITY, Jan. 4.—The outstanding event of this week for Ellwood City is the community football banquet to be held on Wednesday evening at the Shelby club house honoring the entire 1937 squad and their mentors, Thurman Croft and Howard B. Gilles.

Members of the Board of Education are joining in the affair and members of the Kiwanis and Rotary clubs will attend in a body. While only four hundred persons can be accommodated and many reservations have been made, some tickets, about 25, still remain and can be secured at the Shelby club house before the banquet or by contacting Andy Biorli.

To say that the affair is being sponsored by Andy Biorli, prominent Lincoln high school sports enthusiast, is to say that it will be a memorable success. This is the fourth banquet to be given by Mr. Biorli for high school teams and each one has been a notable event in the local sports world.

Bill Kern, Carnegie Tech coach, and a popular banquet speaker, will be the principal speaker, which is a top-notch drawing feature not to mention Clippie Smith and Buff Donnelly, Duquesne University coaches, Alex Fox, Pitt's line coach and Edgar Weltner, Geneva College coach.

In addition to the previously mentioned football notables, definite arrangements have been made to have Marshall Goldberg, Pitt's All-American star, attend the banquet and participate in the program.

"Denny" Chilli has been selected to serve as toastmaster, and Rev. W. E. Minter will give the invocation. A splendid out-of-town orchestra has been engaged to provide appropriate dinner music. Through his affiliation with the movie company, Mr. Biorli will be permitted to show films of all the important college games of the past season and will also show another movie.

Phil Tammara, former Lincoln high school football star, and a varsity quarterback of Carnegie Tech, will share honors with the football team. During the banquet, he will be presented with a handsome Gladstone bag as the gift of the local Sons of Italy.

Twenty-four of the high school lettermen will be presented with gold plated football emblems with E. C. H. S. in the blue enameled letters and the year 1937 inscribed on them. The lettermen will be presented with a handsome Gladstone bag as the gift of the local Sons of Italy.
